

Oesophageal cancer is a malignant tumour found anywhere in the oesophagus.

In Australia it is most commonly found in the lower section of the oesophagus, adjoining the stomach.

The main types of oesophageal cancer starts in the glandular tissue of the cells lining the oesophagus.